

Public Policy Analysis – mgr Andrzej Stawicki

Course duration: one semester

Number of ECTS credits: 4.0

This course will integrate various social science disciplines and apply these perspectives to problems of public policy. Students will apply quantitative and qualitative methods in the analysis of case studies of policymakers and managers making decisions. Students learn to use the techniques of social science to evaluate projects and programs. Students will gain an understanding of when and how to use various methods of program evaluation during integrating theoretical concepts and case studies. Additionally, student gain the ability to design thinking during creating and implementing of public intervention.