Description	This course begins with the semiotics of Julia Kristeva: her concept of the linguistic sign. It proceeds to examine the conscious and unconscious in the theory of this thinker. Hers is a contribution to the investigation of the human mind, informed by Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel, psychoanalysis and her own research, which should be taken into account by representatives of cognitive science; Kristeva refers to one of them: Zenon Pylyszyn and his "Computation and Cognition: Issues in the foundation of cognitive science." Her theory is ever-evolving as she is sensitive to the latest developments in the academia as well as individual and social life.
