June 5-6, 2025, Lublin

The UMCS Centre of Eastern Europe and the Institute of International Relations of the Faculty of Political Science and Journalism of UMCS invite you to participate in the 1st Convention of Central and Eastern Europe Researchers entitled "East-Central Europe in a Period of Change. Politics and Society", which will be held on June 5-6, 2025 in Lublin at the Faculty of Political Science and Journalism of UMCS (ul. Głęboka 45, 20-612 Lublin).

The geopolitical location of Poland means that issues related to East-Central Europe remain at the centre of interest of researchers and experts. In the scientific and didactic dimensions, this translates into the development of interdisciplinary research and academic studies in the field of humanities and social sciences. The basic goal of the Convention is to create a space for a scientific debate and to integrate the community of researchers dealing with the history, culture, politics and societies of the states of the region.

Dynamic geopolitical changes, challenges and threats to security and socio-political transformations in the states of East-Central Europe create a growing need for a reliable, multi-level and multi-dimensional analysis of the ongoing changes and processes and for conducting interdisciplinary research in this area. The complexity and depth of regional and global changes determine the transformation of the international order and processes taking place within states and societies.
